

Erin Sedor

Executive Advisor & Strategic Performance Expert

I don't show up to help kick the can, check the box, or tell you that you're always right.

But if you are all-in, then so am I.

With more than three decades of experience under my belt navigating high-growth organizational environments to manage strategic risk and organizational change, there's not much I haven't seen. My practice has put me alongside executives in organizations of all sizes, types, and industries - vision alignment, risk visibility, and strategic performance are always the topics at hand.

My value isn't in handing you a solution on a platter, it's about rolling my sleeves up with you to reveal opportunities and challenges that impact the decisions you make today and tomorrow. This is how we improve performance from the inside out.

My goal is to help you create a powerfully cohesive team with a strategic thinking discipline that challenges status quo at every turn, creating agile, living strategy that evolves as it needs to.
